Please find attached my responses to the two ACLU questionnaires. I am a strong supporter of the ACLU's mission to protect and support everyone's civil rights.

In response to the Smart Justice Alaska questionnaire on specific justice issues, I would like to expand on my answers here. I know Alaskans are concerned about their own safety and that of their families and communities. I am too. Before the most recent criminal justice reform law was enacted, crime had been on the rise in our state. I know that passing crime reform without funding mental health services, drug treatment and housing services is not true reform.

When elected I will support:

- Increasing funding at the Department of Health and Social Services, Division of Substance Misuse and Addiction Prevention
- Addressing the drug epidemic and substance abuse issues via community based programs
- Expanding the Village Public Safety Officers and Village Police Programs
- Increasing staffing at the Department of Public Safety and the Department of Law, Office of Public Advocacy

My top campaign issues are: social justice, responsible natural resource development, fully funded education, and healthcare for Alaskans. I will fight for responsible resource development that keeps our water and oceans healthy. I know that education is crucial to give people skills such as literacy that they need to participate in a democratic society. I will advocate for more investment in our citizens, young and old, thriving and struggling. We must care about each other and work to resolve our most complex social problems to bring true justice reform.

Thank you,

Sara Hannan
